

Rice Market Report

Italy: There is a lot of concern about the drought in Italy. Some farmers postpone the deadline for sowing the fields, others decide for less water-intensive crops.

Currently the situation is dramatic more than a price problem, it is above all a problem of availability, farmers refuse to sell. At the Vercelli market on Tuesday April 8, it was specified that all paddy prices were nominal. There is no exchange, so we don't know the paddy prices.

Yesterday April 12th the prices were officially increased, and it is specified: the prices marked with an (*) are nominal. For all other varieties of paddy rice, the Vercelli commission noted "Limited trade"

Varieties denoted with an * are round rice, Ribe type and Indica.

Then there is another factor to take into consideration, there are the “official” prices versus the prices that you have to “offer” to the farmers to hope that they will sell, and we are always talking about small quantities.
