Rice Market Report

Italy: The market is pretty calm, there are not many offers but there are not many requests either. Financially farmers no longer need to sell, those who needed cash sold what was needed to hold until Christmas and as already informed they no longer have any storage problem either. They still do not want to sell the Indica because they hope to raise the price again up to €350/MT. It is already impossible today for Italian rice mills to be competitive compared to overseas, so if paddy prices rise, they will no longer be able to sell a single grain of Indica rice.

The situation of the by-products is truly complicated at the moment, the rice mills have great difficulty in honouring the contracts already made, there are not enough by-products and their prices therefore remain high.
